Kids, Inc., Backers To Seek Donations

Boys and men interested in the organization of Kids, Inc., football in Canyon will solicit donations beginning Saturday in the city area.

Winston Hall, coordinator of Kids, Inc., here, said the door-to-door canvass will seek a $3 donation from each individual contacted.

The fund drive is a result of lack of funds to finance football teams in Canyon. Previous funds for Kids, Inc., from the Randall County Commissioners Court were found to be unavailable this fall, according to Hall.

Kids, Inc., needs at least $325 per team and plans to field three teams this fall.

The money will be used to replace and repair worn-out uniforms.

The Canyon News, published by Troy Martin, has offered to donate a full page in the paper upon which the names of $3 donators will be listed.

"When we have enough names to fill one page of the newspaper, then this will be published listing the names and then framed and placed in a prominent place in the community," Hall said.

Hall said teams cannot be backed by business firms for advertising purposes, and he said dividing the cost per team among individual players might result in some boys not being able to play.

He said anyone in the county or city not contacted for donations, could mail a donation to either Meredith Warren or Hall. Checks should be made payable to Kids, Inc., of Canyon.

Registration for the teams begins today from 4:30 to 5:30 p.m. and will be held during the same time Friday at Conner Park.

Hall said every boy who wants to play Kids, Inc., football will be given the opportunity.

He said Canyon School District Athletic Director Dunny Goode will help supervise and instruct coaches this fall.

Registration fee of $3 will be charged each boy.

Teams will be formed according to the following criteria:

Team 1--nine years of age by Sept. 1, 1969, maximum weight of 95 pounds, must not have played on an organized team before this year.

Team 2- 10 and 11 years old, maximum weight 110 pounds.

Team 3--12 and 13 years old, maximum weight 115 pounds.

Birthday Calendar Set Again

Canyon Band Parents Club is again sponsoring the Community Birthday Calendar, according to Dr. and Mrs. Manly Bryan, presidents of the organization.

Each person signing for the calendar will have their name printed on the calendar on the date of their birthday. The calendar will also show wedding anniversaries, meeting dates of various organizations, athletic, band and other events at Canyon schools and at West Texas State University.

Members of the organization will conduct door-to-door campaigns between September 8-19 and delivery is expected in December.

Listings will cost $1 per singles, $1.50 for married couples and $2 for families. Extra copies of the calendar may be ob-

Building Permits Increase In '69

The new Canyon Junior High School building contributed to raise total value of Canyon construction for the first eight months in 1969 over the values for a comparable period last year.

According to E. A. Collie, city building inspector, value of buildings started during January through August of 1969 totaled $1,736,655. This compares to $1,141,950 during the first eight months of 1968.

If the junior high building, costing more than $1,200,000 had not brought up the total, construction in 1969 would have been much less than the same period in 1968.

Prevailing high interest rates are blamed for the construction slowdown by businessmen, because they keep would-be homeowners and business owners from taking out loans.

Total construction values for all of 1968 came to $4,086,402. It will take a major development to match this figure in 1969. The new Student Activities Building at West Texas State University, costing more than two million dollars, was started in October 1968.

Five of the first eight months of this year showed decreases in construction value from the same month in 1968, while three showed increases.

In August, 1969, six construction projects were started at a total cost of $74,050. They included one commercial building, one carport, one residence, one remodeling of a commercial building, and two additions to homes.

Tuesday was a big day for Miss Susan O'Connor--her very first day of school. She was pictured in her schoolroom as she and her classmates concentrated on drawing pictures of themselves as they looked that day. Susan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John D. O'Connor of 518 12th Ave., is a first grade pupil in Mrs. Orville Hicks' class at Rex Reeves Elementary.

Little kicker Matias Garza sends one through the uprights as quarterback Eric Roanhaus holds the ball. Garza, smallest man on the West Texas State University football team, is expected to see much action as kicker this fall.

Small Kicker Packs Big Punch For Buffs

West Texas State University's Buffaloes had already salted the first victory of the 1968 season away and, with time fading, head football coach Joe Kebel decided to give a freshman a chance.

The strong-legged youngster boomed the kickoff to a point near Lamar Tech's goal line and then smashed his 139-pound frame into the ball-carrier to make the tackle.

Thus, Matias Garza made his debut for the Buffaloes.

The 5-9 Alamo, Tex., product will share placement kicking duties this fall with quarterback Clarence Redic, who kicked for 67 points last fall and was the nation's fourth leading kick scorer.

Before 1968's season was complete Garza had kicked field goals of 23 and 44 yards in four efforts. His failures were from 39 and 47 yards.

"My leg is stronger now than it was last year," says Garza. "Coach Jack Harris helped me a great deal last fall. When I first got here I couldn't kick the ball very far."

The soft-spoken youngster says coach Harris taught him how to get his full weight behind the ball, and to get additional snap and drive into his leg.

Although Matias can kick the ball further than he could at Pharr-San Juan-Alamo High School, he didn't do bad there. He drilled home 18 of 19 extra points during his junior year and didn't miss once in 11 kicks during his senior year. In the two seasons he didn't miss a field goal try in five efforts.

His high school field goals were of 37, 35, 36, 32 and 27 yards.

Matias started kicking placements as a grade schooler. His grade school didn't have goal posts, so he and several friends kicked balls over a baseball backstop on the school grounds.

Did those other friends go on to become standout football kickers?

"No," said Matias, "they were all too small."

Even for Matias, its was his junior year in high school before he was able to make a believer out of a coach as to the strength in his right leg.

Although he didn't make it big as a kicker until that point, it didn't slow down his football playing. He was a regular halfback throughout junior high school and started two years in high school.

All-Valley honors came to Matias two years as a kicker and he was named to the all-district team as an offensive halfback his senior year. He was even smaller then, 5-7 and 135, but he managed to rush for

First Buffalo Scrimmage Ends Week Of Tough Drill

West Texas State University's Buffaloes, under the direction of head coach Joe Kerbel, put on their football pads for the first hitting session of fall drills.

The Buffaloes began work Monday with 74 players in camp and the first three days of drills were without pads. Conditioning was stressed prior to today's first live hitting.

Kerbel will send his charges through their first scrimmage session at 2 p.m. Saturday in Buffalo Bowl.

Buffalo coaches were pleased with the overall conditioning of the squad and few players were overweight. Kerbel reported that spirit was high during the opening drills, one of which was forced inside due to rain.

Several personnel changes were made during spring drills and the players appear to be adapting to their new positions quickly.

Offensive tackle Don Tate was moved from the defensive line and Dale Donoho was moved from tight end to offensive tackle. Tight end Willie Walker is a converted fullback, while his back-up man Don Moon came to West Texas as a quarterback.

Milton Young has been moved this fall from center to defensive tackle and is performing well at that new post.

When Charles Henderson reported to camp two days late, after undergoing additional checking on a knee injury which slowed him last fall, he joined a tight fight for the flanker position with transfer Robert Jackson and sophomore Ron Willingham.

Kerbel has been pleased with the passing of all three of his quarterbacks--Clarence Redic, Ed Holwig and Eric Roanhaus. Redic and Holwig are both sophomores, while Roanhaus is a senior.

The coaching staff has been impressed with the running of halfbacks Rocky Tompson, Olan Thompson and Aaron Banks. Both Duane Thomas and Ramse Falafine have impressed during early drills.

Several spirited battles for starting berths are in progress among offensive linemen. Wayne Adams, a 1968 squadman, is pressing Donoho and Tate for a starting position. Sid Goff and Jerry Cryer are near equal at the starting center slot.

Veteran guards Earl Clardy and Dag Azam are receiving competition from transfer Roscoe Zierlein and sophomores Reginald Bassett and Billy Taylor.

Randy Robson, Rick Fangman and John Notaro, the only three returning lettermen on the defensive line, are currently in front of other candidates. Squadman Ron Holland, transfer Neil Thomsen and Young are

Survey Reveals Protest Mood

BY CARROLL WILSON

An underlying spirit of protest manifested itself in the Panhandle campaign of American Party presidential candidate George Wallace and it was this spirit which urged area campaigners to back the issues and not necessarily the man.

This is the crux of findings of an opinion survey undertaken by Walter Shelly, assistant professor of government at West Texas State University.

Shelly has completed the statistical analysis of his study of Panhandle citizens who attended precinct conventions of the American Party last year.

The study of American Party precinct convention goers was done in conjunction with a similar survey of actual area voters in the Democratic, Republican and American Parties. Results of this study have not been compiled.

Working through a grant from WTSU, Shelly decided to zero in on the opinions of those who attended the American Party precinct conventions simply because the party "is a new political phenomenon."

The results of Shelly's survey are based on answers to 265 questionairres returned to his office. He originally mailed out 400, picked at random from precinct convention name sheets.

"I wanted to find out their background, how they perceive George Wallace, their knowledge of local government and to investigate sociological variables to determine whether this was a class movement," Shelly said.

As a result of his survey, Shelly says the Wallace movement in the Panhandle cannot be explained on the basis of class.

Shelly said of those interviewed, all were white, 61 per cent were male, 59 per cent were between the ages of 25 and 44, and 49 per cent had completed either all or some college.

About 85 per cent identified with the middle class and about 77 per cent had incomes from $5,000 to $18,000. More than half perceived themselves to be urban and 53 per cent were Baptists.

Most of them saw themselves as independent politically, whether independent Republicans or Democrats.

The majority voted 2-1 in favor of Barry Goldwater in

Student Housing Overruns Black

House-hungry college students, well aware of Canyon's tight housing situation, have practically swamped the Chamber of Commerce here in an effort to find shelter this school year.

Roland Black, chamber manager, said this week that he began receiving telephone calls and letters from throughout the nation about two months ago from college students seeking housing. He said some inquiries have come from new college faculty members.

The great surge of home hunters is a new thing for Black and the chamber office. Formerly West Texas State University handled much of the students' requests.

Black said, however, that the university has decided to discontinue helping students find off-campus housing. The students, then, have turned to the chamber for help.

Black had to scramble to be of help.

"In July I had to get out and hunt for places," he said. "As I drove around, I'd see a place and put it down on a list."

But, city residents with rental property have begun calling in when they have available housing.

Nevertheless, the supply has not met the demand.

With about 200 callers already seeking housing this summer, Black is hard put to find room.

He has made up lists of apartment houses which he sends inquirers and also has lists of rental property even in Amarillo.

When a person calls Black seeking a home or apartment, he is generally given several likely addresses or telephone numbers to call.

Too often, though, Black is never informed when a rent house or apartment is rented and no longer available.

Black said after the summer quest for housing, rental property has probably just about reached the saturation point.

"It won't be long," he said, "until everything we have that's

Eagle Scrimmages Show Real Spirit

When NASA readies its astronauts for tours into space, hundreds of test runs simulating exact anticipated conditions are devised and executed.

When Head Coach Dunny Goode readies his Canyon High School Eagles for their 11 bouts on the football field, the only exact simulation at his disposal is the scrimmage.

And, instead of having hundreds of test runs--or scrimmages--with which to prepare his team for game conditions, Goode has only two.

Yet a good deal of valuable information--not only for the coach, but for the players--is gleaned from the short scrimmage sessions.

From last week's scrimmage against Levelland, Goode and his coaching staff learned that the Eagles are an aggressive, hustling and spirited team.

"But, they made many mental mistakes on leading assignments and defensive keys," Goode said.

The Eagles have spent this week drilling to correct their mistakes in preparation for their second and final scrimage against Littlefield at 4 p.m. Friday on the high school field.

Littlefield will provide the final test before the first game against Phillips on Sept. 12.

Goode was particularly interested not only in how his team performed as a whole, but the performance of each of the component parts.

He had guarded praise for the ball handling of quarterback Mike Swatzell and back David Erwin, who several times completely outran the Levelland defenders on a brilliantly executed trap play.

On the defense, Goode picked Lonnie Moore, Gary Schrib, Kelley Tinsley and John Lewis as handling blocking assignments well.

"The defensive secondary was much improved, also," Goode said. "They only completed one pass against us for five yards."

Eagle passing, though weak in the long bomb threat, could

Season tickets for the Eagle football games this fall are available at $8 for one and $15 for two. The price includes membership in the Booster Club.

Club memberships are $1.50 and $2.50 for a man and wife.

Memberships and season tickets are available from Mrs. T. G. Hull, Eural Ramsey, Ross Russell or Jack Swatzell.

Youth Views Social Ills At School

BY CAROLYN RINEHART

Race relations, education, unemployment, poverty, urban renewal--these are problems that boggle the minds of the best thinkers in our country today.

And these are the problems that were subject to study by young students, including Tom Blackburn of Canyon, this summer in California.

Blackburn is a senior student at Canyon High School.

He was one of 58 high school students chosen from throughout the nation for this and three similar programs sponsored by the Telluride Association. The association was founded before 1925 by L. L. Nunn, a wealthy Western miner.

In the program, Tom spent six weeks at Deep Springs College in a California valley surrounded by the High Sierras. With ten other high school boys from all parts of the U. S., ten entering freshmen of the college, two professors, and several guest lecturers, Tom tackled some of the country's most pressing troubles head-on through readin and discussion.

Like their older counterparts, Tom and the Deep Springs "brain trust" didn't come up with any sure-fire solutions to the problems of the cities, nor did they prescribe a panacea for racial harmony.

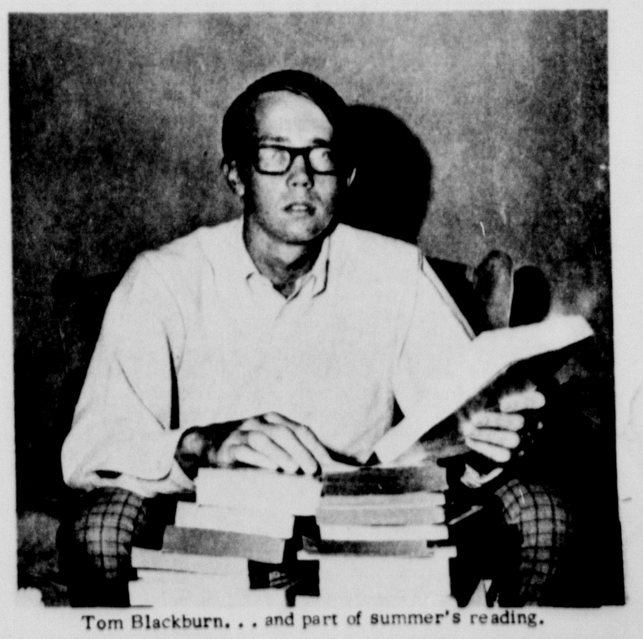

"We weren't really trying to come up with any plan for national action," Tom said, "but rather to get a broad general knowledge of the whole area."

In order to get that knowledge, 17 books were required reading during the six-week session, with many more suggested.

The boys, however, did more than read. Deep Springs is a ranch-college that was planned by its founder to be self-supporting.

Mornings were devoted to classes and discussions. In the afternoon the boys worked on the

FROM THE CANYON RIM

American Legion Magazine came out last week with a very discerning piece on Red China. The article casts some doubts as to whether Red China is still red or not.

The writer leads one to believe that the world's largest nation may be nothing more than a military dictatorship.

If true, this news will bring little comfort to either the Western world or to Soviet Russia.

As long as the communist jargonists ruled there was little danger that China would emerge as a bonafide world power.

Mao pulled off such stupid stunts during his infamous "Great Leap Forward" in the late 1950s as herding the peasants into communes where they either refused or were uanble to produce enough foodstuff for 600 million hungry mouths.

Probably the lulu of all boners was when he forced the building of back yard smelting furnaces where workers after a hard day on the job spent the evenings "voluntarily" smelting steel that was so inferior as to be useless.

The people were so worn out from staying up most of the night with their furnaces that they were unable to turn out much on their regular jobs the next day.

The Legion Magazine says the Chinese experts including the military have turned away from such hokus pokus in disgust. There is speculation that Mao is just a figurehead anymore, that the successor he had picked to assume the purple when he is dead won't be allowed to outlive him very long and when Mao is gone Chinese generals will openly grasp the reins of state.

Under intelligent leadership, China can give the whole world cause to tremble.

An era of journalism ended this week with the death of Drew Pearson. Pearson once wrote of himself that some hated him and some loved him but that there was no middle ground.

Some may often have doubted his wisdom, some questioned his truthfulness but I have heard of none who questioned his courage.

Maybe the only person who ever struck fear in the Pearson heart was his former mother-in-law, Cissy Patterson.

Since the 1930s there has been no one on the American scene powerful enough to stay the acid-dipped pen of Drew Pearson.

The world may be full of strife and misgivings but there is one good thing in the air this week.

It's football season and people go a little wacky when kids begin kicking the pigskin around.

Joe Kerbel was in his best form Saturday when he introduced the 1969 Buffs to the press corps and visitors at West Texas State University's East Cafeteria.

It seems that Eugene "Mercury" Morris has been making some more statements for publication. Not all of them have been too complimentary of late and most of them have been about his erstwhile mentor.

"I don't know how Eugene is doing with his football with the Dolphins," said Joe Saturday, "but he seems to be doing all right with his public relations.

"I wish someone else would come into Eugene's life and he'd quit talking about me for a while."

One of the nicest little guys on the WT campus this fall will be Matias Garza. Matias is a kicker who booted a 44-yard field goal in his first attempt last year as a freshman.

If Matias were not an understudy for Clarence Redic, himself a great kicker, the little 135-pounder might jump to national prominence in his sophomore season.

Matias has all the qualities which would endear him to sportswriters. He is little in a sport usually dominated by big bruisers. He is also soft spoken and polite.

Our World

BY ANN BROWN

The earth is filled with misery. Natural disasters, and certain unavoidable diseases are inescapable; but the majority of man's ills, he brings upon himself.

The basis of human wretchedness is the eternal conflict between good and evil. Good brings happiness; evil brings misery.

Any time there is conflict, all contestants contend they are right, else there would be no conflict. The critical issue is not who is right, but what is right.

The ultimate goal in counseling is to obtain an objective viewpoint, and persuade the conflicting parties to agree to do WHAT is right regardless of WHO is right. This is impossible, of course, without a common criterion of right and wrong.

The modernists who contend there is no right or wrong in the moral or spiritual areas, would not dare apply their philosophy to the scientific, legal, physical, or financial world.

The laws in every civilized country in the world are based on the teachings of the Bible. The closer any government sticks to the Book, the more harmonious, peaceful, and productive is the nation.

If the atheist who is so determined to ban the Creator from His skies as well as His earth is successful, what has she gained?

The theory that this vast universe, that moves in such order, just happened is about as tenable as the idea that Webster's unabridged dictionary is the result of an explosion in a print factory.

Behind every design there must be a designer.

If there is no God, no heaven, or no hell, what does the Christian have to lose?

Not all professing Christians follow the teachings of the Bible, of course; but the ones who do, never become down-and-outers, alcoholics, or drug addicts. No one living by the Bible could commit a criminal act, live without working, or create an unhappy home.

Christianity is a peaceful, productive, happy way of life. The real Christian does not have to fear an unknown future, and he can face his current problems with equanimity. He can accept hardship, disappointment, sorrow, and even death courageously.

A popular atheistic philosophy contends that is is everyone's prerogative to do as he pleases. This is just fine--as long as it does not interfere with others doing as they please. People who smoke, drink, and eat themselves into early graves, usually consider it an inalienable, individual right that no one should question. But is it?

Does it ever occur to the smoker that his stifling smoke and maloderous breath may be offensive to non-smokers around him?

There were approximately 53,000 American deaths from lung cancer alone in 1968 (about the number killed in World War I). In addition to the emphysema, heart, ulcer, and other deaths attributed to smoking (300,000 in all), it adds up to a lot of human misery.

The National Safety Council reports 55,200 deaths last year in traffic crashes. At least half of them were attributed to drinking drivers. An additional 2,000,000 persons were injured.

Alcohol is a factor in the majority of broken homes, and child-abuse cases. A recent report lists 28% of all male mental patients as alcoholics.

More than 93% of the litter picked up on Texas highways in 1968 was alcohol-related. It cost the state $1.8 million to pick it up.

It costs the state of New York 30 cents to pick up one bottle, seven times the cost of producing it.

Over-eating causes many physical and emotional problems, and leads to premature death. It also makes the victims obnoxious to the ones who love them most.

The doctors, nurses, family, and friends who have the physical care of all the needlessly sick, injured, and dying people may question the individual's right to destroy himself--and others.

The innocent victims of the alcoholics and the drug addicts probably would not agree that alcohol and drugs concern no one but the users.

When one adds all the suffering caused by general lawlessness to the woes of over eating, cigarettes, drugs, and drink, it presents a forbidding picture indeed--all unnecessary.

So even if the Christian's concept of eternity is wrong, he has everything to gain and nothing to lose. But what if he is right and the atheist is wrong? Then the atheist must struggle through this life without the comfort, guidance, and strength of an all-wise Creator, and face eternity in hell.

Dear Customer,

Starting Wednesday, September 10, 1969 the florists in Canyon will close at noon on Wednesday Only.

This move has become necessary due to the following reasons:

1. Compliance with the new wage and hour laws -- The small businesses are encountering the present profit squeeze with the problems of minimum wages, overtime requirements and tight money to name only a few.
2. We feel our employees deserve this time off and with everyone off the same day we are at full work strength the rest of the week.
3. The trend to close for ½ day or even all day has become a general practice in more and more businesses. We must follow suit to stay competitive in the labor market.
4. We hope to be able to provide better service for our customers with the initiation of this new policy.

We will adhere to this policy with the exception of the month of December and the Wednesdays before Easter and Mother's Day.

IT IS YOUR MONEY

You have a right to know these facts

You spend a lot of money for auto insurance. You have read wild statements about insurance costs and companies. If you would like some plain talk, here it is.

They say . . . Auto insurance companies are guaranteed a profit.

FACT: Before insurance companies can make a profit they have to first pay to have wrecked cars repaired or replaced, pay hospital and doctor bills for folks injured in auto accidents, pay for stolen or stripped cars, pay for cars damaged by hail, fire, wind or flood waters, pay wages or commissions to 95,400 Texans who give service to policy holders in every county in the state, pay taxes and operate their companies. If there is anything left after all these payments have been made, it is profit.

They say . . . Texas auto insurance rates need to go up 11.4 percent.

FACT: The evidence is very clear. Accidents are up. Medical costs are up. Repair costs are up. Auto thefts and vandalism are both up. All this forces rates upward. Facts and figures prove that a 17 percent increase is needed now.

They say . . . There is nothing you can do to lower your auto insurance costs.

FACT: You can't lower labor and medical costs. You can't lower automobile and parts costs. You can help reduce the number of traffic accidents and crimes against automobiles. The accident that doesn't happen does not boost the cost of auto insurance. The car that isn't stripped or stolen does not increase the cost of your auto insurance.

Let Governor Smith, your Mayor and your County Officials know that you want a stop put to Texas' growing traffic accident and crime tolls . . . that you want the law enforced. Good law enforcement can reduce accidents and crimes against cars.

Lower accidents and crime rates can mean lower auto insurance rates for you. Isn't this worth a little effort on your part?

They say . . . Labor costs are a small part of auto insurance costs.

FACT: Labor costs make up the major part of auto repair bills and in some parts of Texas labor costs for auto repairs have increased in recent time by an amazing 40 percent.

They say . . . Auto insurance companies make too much money.

FACT: Look at this listing of the earnings by major industries in the United States as published by the First National City Bank of New York and as republished in the study developed by the Arthur D. Little Co., an independent research organization then judge for yourself:

Lady Golfers Play Session

Members of the Canyon Country Club Ladies Golf Association held their weekly session Tuesday morning. The day of play appeared to be dampened a bit by the fact that Tuesday was also the first day of school and many players were involved in other activities. Eight members were on hand for the play.

An earlier decision also contributed to the lack of available members as many are school teachers and their play was to be held later in the day.

Winners in the morning session were Mrs. Duane Guy who won the low putts with 15. Mrs. Steve Self won the most putts with a 22.

Mrs. Bill Harp, Mrs. Duane Howard, and Mrs. Chuck Allen tied for the most fives with three each in the Blind Bogie play.

Spending most of the week in the Arvin Triplett home have been Mrs. Charles Triplett, Larry, and the new baby, Michael Wayne, of Plainview.

Mrs. Ray Carnahan putts as husband, Ray, on right, watches. The Carnanans were low gross at the Canyon Country Club and Dr. and Mrs. Robert Burton in background were low net.

Country Club Golfers Have Holiday Activity

The members of the Canyon Country Club celebrated Labor Day with a number of festivities, including a Scotch Foursome Golf Tournament.

Pro Al Forrester said that rain postponed the tee off times for several hours, but by noon it was going strong with thirty teams trying for the top six paying spots. Teams composed of one woman and a man, with both teeing off and then choosing the best ball and then hitting alternately until the ball went into the cup on each hole.

Three teams were deadlocked for first place at the end of the nine-hole contest, among the teams of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Carnahan; Dr. and Mrs. Robert Burton; John Williams and the Pro's wife, Mrs. Al Forrester, all turning in scores of 39.

The Carnahans won the sudden-death play-off on the second hole when Ray Carnahan chipped up to within four feet of the hole, and Mrs. Carnahan sunk the putt for a par.

Low Gross: First--Mr. and Mrs. Ray Carnahan, 39; John Williams and Mrs. Al Forrester, 39; Third--Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Winn, 42.

Low Net: First--Dr. and Mrs. Robert Burton, 28; a two-way tie for Second and Third Low Net developed between the teams of Mr. and Mrs. Duane Howard and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Harp both with 29s.

Also included in the holiday celebrations was a covered dish luncheon held in the white table-clothed dining room in the Club House. Spaghetti, jello specialties, cake, pie, and home-made bread were only some of the main features.

The highlight of the day, however, was a performance by the CCC Mighty Art Players as they presented the well known fable "Hansel and Gretel". Among the performers were Dinah Winn, who portrayed the Witch; Mindy Hicks as the wicked stepmother; Craig Howard played the poor "pig farmer" who was unable to provide for his family; Bryan Garner made a fine last minute substitute as Hansel; and Lisa Forrester projected the part of Gretel. The play was produced and directed by the youngsters, and featured the unusual ending, as the wicked stepmother did not die in the end, but ran away with a "good for nothin' Golf Pro".

Miss Lori Beth Forrester, dressed as a "mini-Greta Garbo", sang "I'm a Lonely Little Petunia in an Onion Patch".

For the finale the "Charleston Dancers" sang and danced a Roaring Twenties medley of "Charleston", "K-K-Katy", and "Five-Foot-Two", done by Miss Dinah Winn, Mindy Hicks and Lisa Forrester. Adding spice to the numbers were the pre-teen subjects dressed in flapper dresses, rolled down hose; jewelry and furs.

The next scheduled event at the club will be the Tuffy Golf Tournament, Sunday, September 21st. Pro Al Forrester said the course will be lengthened to maximum, and pin placements set difficult in an effort to keep the better players from scoring below par. Any and all members who think the course is too easy are encouraged to enter.

Traditional white runners marked the bridal aisles.

Miss Mary Ruth McCulley, teacher of organ at West Texas State University, played a pre-nuptial program of compositions by Bach, Brahms, Franck, and Purcell.

Miss Rachel Toscano of Skidmore lighted the candles from a white cathedral taper centering a nosegay of light pink carnations, red roses, pink baby's breath, and English ivy foliage.

Reembroidered alencon lace accented the bodice of the gown, which was enhanced with seed pearls and sequins. Motifs of the lace fell in a scattered pattern over the skirt, which extended into a chapel train. A bow of silk organza, lace, and pearls secured her shoulder length veil of illusion. large cattle ranch, digging ditches, haying, milking, and whatever chores needed doing. Frequently, there was a whole book to be read for the next day's class.

Clearly, the pace was difficult. "We really didn't miss not having a TV, or not going in to town," Tom said. "We just slept during our leisure hours."

Tom found out about the program after he took the PSAT, a nationwide achievement and aptitude test given to high school students.

On the basis of his high test score, he received a letter asking him to apply. He sent in an application, consisting mostly of essays, and upon making the semifinals he was called for a personal interview.

"My parents figured there wasn't a chance for me to make it," Tom said.

When he learned that he had been selected, Tom had a choice of four summer programs which included the Deep Springs program on race and poverty in America, one at Cornell University on science, another at Cornell on literature and politics, and one at Hampton Institute in Virginia on black studies.

Of the students who were with him at the seminar, Tom said, "We attacked problems more or less from a liberal base, but we were not in agreement on everything. No one really radical was there."

"We had one conservative white fellow from Atlanta, Ga., and one Negro. The Negro was not the most liberal of the group, by any means."

Professors at the Deep Springs summer session were Dr. Christopher Breiseth of Williams College and Michael Davidson, a New York lawyer.

A book widely discussed by the youngsters was "Beyond the Melting Pot," by Patrick Moynihan, an advisor on urban affairs to Presidents Kennedy, Johnson, and Nixon.

Tom, who is deeply concerned with current problems and who is tentatively considering the law as a career, thinks he might like to attend the elite Deep Springs College.

"Every student accepted for the college gets a full scholarship," he said. "The college has twenty students in the first two years of instruction, and usually some five or six stay for the third year, which is optional."

Students decide which applicants will be accepted to attend the all-male college for the next year. Since the school has high standards, its graduates generally are accepted at such universities as UCLA, Berkeley, Stanford, or Cornell, Tom said.

While at the session, Tom was interested in comparing his high school education from Canyon with the preparation of the other students.

"Some of those from the north and east had vastly different backgrounds," Tom said. "For instance, they had spent a whole semester on the works of one author in a specilized English course."

Tom had praise for the science department at Canyon High and for Mrs. Charles Brasher, who had been his teacher.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Blackburn of 413 Taylor Lane.

During the track season he ripped off a 10-flat clocking in the 100-yard dash.

One gets the idea Matias would like to try that speed against college players.

What would happen if a field goal or extra point center snap was fumbled?

"We have a play to cover any fumbles," he said. "The quarterback holds for placements. He is to throw a pass in case of a fumble. If I get the ball on a fumble, I'm to throw the ball."

And what would happen if no receivers were open? Would you run?

"Why not?" says Matias.

Survey....

"This group was disillusioned with the two major parties and many times in response to the question "why?" said that there was not a dime's worth of difference between the two parties," Shelly said. "Wallace was quick to take advantage of this. This argument had an appeal."

Concerning the respondents' knowledge of local government, Shelly said 51 per cent didn't know this district's state senator. Sixty-two percent couldn't name the state district judge, 69 per cent couldn't name the county judge and more than 80 per cent couldn't name the attorney general of the state. Fifteen percent didn't know the name of the local mayor.

About 49 per cent were against the formation of a Council of Governments for the Panhandle, while 31 per cent had no knowledge of a COG.

The perception of Wallace by the convention goers illustrated, Shelly said, that "even though George Wallace had personal qualities, it was not his charisma that drew these people to the precinct conventions.

"It was not so much what kind of man he was, but the things against which he fought."

Shelly said the Wallace voter was a rational voter, knowing exactly why he voted for the American Party candidate.

The basic issues to which Wallace asserted himself during the campaign included the threat of domestic communism, segregation, government intervention and welfare, foreign affairs and protection of the Constitution.

Shelly said that in the Panhandle the specter of domestic communism is a major issue.

"Seventy-five per cent saw communism conquering the world in accordance with a definite blueprint and time schedule," Shelly said. "Seventy-one per cent saw internal communism as a very great danger."

The survey indicates that 86 per cent agreed that riots in American cities are caused by communists.

Of those surveyed, 64 per cent agreed that segregation "is the natural relationship between the races."

Forty-nine per cent agreed that "regardless of what some people say, there are certain races in the world that just won't mix with Americans."

Forty per cent said the Bible supports segregation of the races.

About 87 per cent agreed that there should be less government regulation of business and agriculture in this country.

Only .4 per cent considered poverty as one of the three most important issues facing America today.

Fifty-one per cent agreed that cuts in the federal budget should first come from welfare allotments.

The largest split in opinions occurred in questions on the survey pertaining to the foreign affairs, Shelly said.

He said perhaps the difference in opinions is also reflected in Wallace's own vague statements on foreign affairs.

However, 91 per cent agreed that if the federal government let the military leadership handle the war in Vietnam "we could have a victory there."

Fifty-four per cent felt the U. S. should invade North Vietnam.

Shelly said as a result of his survey, he believes the issues Wallace stood for were issues in earlier election years and will be issues again in 1972.

He said that in 1968, the issues had a supporter--George Wallace--and that all they need to surface again in 1972 is another man.

was down from $129,891 in August of 1968 and $142,300 in August of 1967.

July saw six construction starts, including the junior high, for a total of $1,265,245. This figure shows a rise from July 1968 when there were $47,835 worth of construction starts.

In June seven projects were started for a modest cost of $47,100. This shows a drop from $68,050 in June 1968.

Five projects were begun in May for a cost of $61,800, down from $79,220 in 1968.

April saw seven starts for $70,300, down considerably from $200,754 in April 1968 and $104,500 in April 1967.

In March there were nine starts totaling $49,060 in value. This figure was slightly up from $44,900 in March 1968.

February saw the most starts, with twelve. Cost totaled $138,100, a rise from $62,500 in February 1968.

In January five starts totaled $31,000. This showed a significant drop from $508,800 in 1968 and $305,340 in 1967.

Although Goode says he has been blessed with healthy and unhurt players so far this season, he lost several players from last year's winning junior varsity team due to grades and moving.

Last year's junior varsity, which sported an 8-1 record, provides a good bit of the punch of this year's Eagles.

Missing from this fall's lineup are David Smith, a 200-pound linebacker, who recently moved to Houston; John Teters, who suffers a knee injury; Kenny Tate and Gary Hester and B.G. Baker and Gary Davis.

Work To Start On Lighting

Construction on new lighting for the U. S. 60-87 interchange north of Canyon will begin Sept. 15 and should be completed about Nov. 1.

A brief meeting of the lighting contractor--Loyd Electric Co. - the Texas Highway Department and city representatives was held Wednesday to discuss final problems on the project.

Three 150-foot towers will be constructed at the interchange. Each will be topped by ten 1,000-watt lights.

Jim Moss of the highway department said the light should make the interchange much safer--particularly with increase in night students at West Texas State University and the approaching football season.

It was stressed at the meeting that traffic flow on the interchange will not be hindered by the construction.

Ag Exhibit At Fair

Randall County will have an agricultural exhibit booth assigned to it at the Tri-State Fair in Amarillo, and the booth needs contributions of local field and garden crop samples.

John Brazzil, county agricultural agent, urged grain and vegetable raisers to contact him and contribute samples to furnish the booth.

"Colorful things, not rapidly perishable, are best," Brazzil said. "We need watermelons, pumpkins, sunflower heads, ears of corn, maize heads, and so on."

No competition or judging of the booths is planned, Brazzil said.

"However, if we want to properly show off the products of the county, we need good samples," he continued.

All items should be submitted by Sept. 12.

Rain In Town Measures .30

A cloudy Labor Day weekend brought .30 inches of rain to the Canyon area.

That was the amount measured on the square and just north of the city, but rain south of town was much heavier.

At the Walter Graham residence south of the city, close to an inch of rain fell Tuesday night in addition to the weekend's moisture.

The William F. Schuette farm, five miles east, got only a "drizzle," but that was enough to hold back planting of winter wheat for at least a day.

Scouting Leaders To Meet

A scout meeting for unit leaders and adult scout personnel will be held tonight, Thursday, at 7:30 p.m. at the First United Methodist Church.

Purpose of the meeting will be to discuss plans for a "school night for scouting," according to George Ochs, district scout executive. The school night for scouting will be September 22 at Rex Reeves Elementary School.

Another purpose of Thursday's meeting will be setting unit goals for the 1969 Round-up Kickoff.

Members of the scouting district committee are also urged to attend.

MEET THE NEW CASE

2400 Case agricultural dealers and company personnel worldwide converged on Milwaukee last week to preview revolutionary new plans, new products for the '70's.

Honoring the 4-day J. I. Case Company North American Dealer Congress, Governor Warren P. Knowles has proclaimed August 17-23 "J. I. Case Company Week" throughout the state.

Riverside Theatre site of Broadway-type musical presentation

Setting the scene for the new era at Case, a specially-produced stage presentation depicted the look-ahead plans for Case dealers and sales personnel. The Case men moved to Bong Air Base where some 960 acres of field sales and service training was conducted. The giant Case Tractor and Transmission Plants and Foundry in Racine, and the new Company retail outlet on highway I-94 are also on the dealers' itinerary.

Jet-age power comes alive in record-setting all-new engines

Engines are Case-built, all-new, open-chamber free breathing design. The first of these new engines, used in the Case 1470, has already set a new official world's economy record for tractors over 39 hp. Putting this new power to full use is a 4-range transmission with 3 power shift speeds within each range. The power shift is oil smooth with none of the jerking or lurching common to some "on-the-go" shifts.

Four 70's-new agricultural tractors make their bow

Dealers immediately saw evidence of the new Case philosophy in the crisp, modern styling, more productive power and comfort of a totally new line of agricultural tractors. The four new models - 770, 880, 970 and 1070 - span the power range from 4 to 7-plow.

A 145 hp 4-wheel-drive 8-plow Model 1470 was introduced earlier this spring. The new tractors add a completely new dimension to the Case reputation for high torque, big displacement engines and moderate engine speeds.

Old Abe, the Case Eagle, retires

All-new concept of comfort-conditioning for the world's farmers

Dealers test-driving the new tractors at the Bong Base demonstration plats were to "step into the Case quiet zone. "Rubber mountings under the 17-1/2 sq. ft. operators platform shield the driver from the noise, heat and vibration that used to be considered a necessary evil of tractor operation. A custom-built jet-age cab effectively muffles the snarl of big power. Air filtration and optional air conditioning let a man finish a day's work far fresher and relaxed.

Six chore-hungry compacts built like the big ones

It pays to have "big brother" - just ask the Case compacts. Big-tractor know-how and service. The Case Outdoor Power Equipment Division at Winneconne will offer 6 tractors in 1970 - from 7 to 14 hp.

Case is also a widely diversified construction equipment manufacturer

For the first time, dealers saw the new symbol of Case replacing the familiar old Case Eagle trademark. Dynamic changes have taken place at Case as the company has moved ahead not only in farm equipment but strongly in the construction and compact tractor fields as well. The new look better represents today's stronger, more diversified Case.

By the end of September, dealer and company signs world-wide will display this symbol of the new, progressive Case.

The broadest line of digging, excavating and trenching equipment

If you thought Case was all farm machinery, look again. Crawler loaders and dozers, loader backhoes, wheel loaders, Drott excavators and cranes, Davis trenchers, fork lifts and concrete placers. Today, this construction equipment accounts for half of Case's $400,000,000 annual sales. The construction line also was shown to dealers at the Bong test field.

'TEXAS' Drama Hosts Crowds

Total attendance for the musical drama "TEXAS" this summer was 71,590 persons.

The show at Palo Duro Canyon State Park closed with Monday's Labor Day performance.

The attendance broke 70,000 for the first time and topped the 1968 record by almost 5,000.

Comparative figures in the past are: 1968, 65,012; 1967, 64,925; 1966, 61,338.

"Our attendance this summer averaged 1,256 at each performance, or approximately 84 per cent capacity of the theatre," Raymond Raillard, business manager, said.

The crowd on closing night was the second smallest all season, probably because of threatening weather, Raillard said.

In a recent survey taken at "TEXAS" as well as at other outdoor shows in the United States, members of the audience were asked "Have you seen this drama before?"

At "TEXAS", 33 per cent of those interviewed said yes.

The 1969 audience included visitors from 79 different countries, and the triangle which goes to the visitor coming the greatest distance was not given to anyone from the United States.

One evening the triangle winner came from Vietnam. As he left the theatre, he smiled when he met a very small boy who stuck out his hand and said, "Welcome to Texas!"

State and national lawmakers saw "TEXAS" this summer.

Directors and business managers of several other outdoor shows were in the audience. Some, including the director of the Appalachian show "Unto These Hills," wrote letters of warm congratulations to the cast.

All fifty states of the United States were noted in the parking lot or in the guest book. A man from New Hampshire completed the list. He was the last person to sign the guest book on Saturday night.

Promotion For Church

Sunday, September 7 will be Promotion Day at the First Baptist Church in Canyon.

Departments will promote at the Christian Training time immediately after the regular Bible Study period.

September 7 will also be Rally Day at the church leading toward the fall revival September 21-28 with Dr. Gordon Clinard as speaker.

News Brief

David Schuette, son of Mr. and Mrs. William. F. Schuette, left Tuesday for Oklahoma to spend several days visiting his grandparents and a former coworker on the play "TEXAS".

He planned to go first to Stillwater to visit Erin Wertenberger, former technical director and costume designer for "TEXAS."

From there he was going to Waynoka and the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Jessie C. Hull.

Zone Change Okayed By Commission

Members of the city Planning and Zoning Commission recommended Tuesday night approval of a request for rezoning of a tract in Hunsley Hills from single family to multiple family district.

The request was made by Frank Jones, representing promoters of an apartment building complex on the tract.

Public hearing on the rezoning will be Sept. 18. The recommendation will be considered by the City Commission at that time.

Also approved for recommendation was a request for a special permit submitted by the Rev. Baldwin Stribling.
